Some like it hot: The Peri-Peri chicken at Peri-Peri Grill

Portuguese grilled chicken at Peri-Peri Grill

Peri-Peri Grill House offers Peri-Peri chicken cooked using the old-style Portuguese recipe. Each whole chicken is butterflied then marinated before grill-ing to allow the special mixture of chili and spices in the peri-peri marinade to be absorbed by the meat. "Your mouth doesn't get hot immediately as with other chili-based marinades," says operations manager Carlo Gamboa. "It is an acquired taste."

For those who want to experience Peri-Peri chicken at home, the restaurant has bottles of Peri-Peri sauce available for purchase in both mild and hot varieties. Peri-Peri Grill House is at the Promenade, Greenhills, San Juan. There's also Peri-Peri Charcoal Chicken at SM
